Miami Springs Centennial Committee Announces Centennial Gala Honoring 100 Years of Community and Legacy

Miami Springs, FL — The Miami Springs Centennial Committee is proud to host A Night at the Mansion, an elegant Centennial Gala commemorating the City of Miami Springs' 100th anniversary. This private, ticketed event serves as a cornerstone celebration of the City's centennial year and is dedicated to honoring its rich history, enduring spirit, and strong sense of community.

Proceeds from the Centennial Gala will support the creation of the Glenn Curtiss and June Bug legacy Memorial, as well as help fund additional Centennial events and community initiatives planned throughout the year. These efforts are designed to preserve Miami Springs' legacy while celebrating the people, places, and stories that have shaped the City over the past century.

As part of the evening's program, the City of Miami Springs will receive a formal proclamation from Commissioner Natalie Milian Orbis recognizing this historic milestone. In addition, the Centennial Committee is honored to share a Congressional Recognition from U.S. Congressman Mario Díaz-Balart, presented by Annette Hernandez, commemorating the City's 100-year anniversary.

In his recognition, Congressman Díaz-Balart highlights Miami Springs as a historic and vibrant community founded in 1926 as a thoughtfully planned city that harmonized distinctive architecture, natural beauty, and civic pride. The recognition acknowledges the City's tree-lined streets, commitment to preserving green spaces, and enduring character, as well as the generations of residents, public servants, educators, first responders, and local leaders whose dedication has contributed to the economic, civic, and social fabric of South Florida. The statement further commends Miami Springs for honoring its past while preparing for the opportunities and responsibilities of the next century.

As a private, ticketed event, the Centennial Gala will not be open to the press. Professional photographers will be on site to document the evening, and the Miami Springs Centennial Committee will provide a centralized digital media hub with select official images following the event for informational and editorial use. The Committee respectfully requests that a courtesy credit be given to Aldo Saavedra III and Edward Gutierrez for photo coverage. We appreciate the media's understanding and cooperation.

The Miami Springs Centennial Committee looks forward to welcoming media coverage at numerous Centennial events throughout the year, all open to the public and the press. Dates and details for those events will be announced and updated in due time at www.100miamisprings.com.

On behalf of the Miami Springs Centennial Committee, we extend our sincere gratitude to the community, sponsors, partners, and supporters who continue to make this once-in-a-century celebration possible.
